Saturday Evening
June 15, 1867

My dear Garrison

I duly received your note of yesterday. I trust that after a pleasant journey you will reach your lodgings in safety & find them comfortable.

I have yielded to the wish of my daughter Mrs Gleason, that I should accompany her & Edith to a private box at her Majesty's

Theatre, where the Opera
of Faust is performed this evening. My daughter goes there as Musical Critic for the Star. I wish Mrs Villard could have taken my place to night. She would I am sure have been pacified

Mr Chesson and I will call upon you
in the morning

I have had four weeks of any hard work, I shall now take a holiday, hoping thereby to improve my health, which has been much affected.

Wish you welcome to the Metropolis. I wished that my house were as big as my heart, it should take you all in, and be yours during your Sojourn.

All that I am able to do to promote your enjoyment While you are in London, you may rely upon my doing my best. Love to Fanny & Frank.

Yours fraternally

Geo Thompson

Mrs Thompson wishes to be kindly remembered to you!
